Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament

Do you know what Mass is? In the Church it is what the sun in our world, it is the soul of our faith, the center of our religion, the end and center of all the ceremonies, rites and sacraments. In a word it is the summary of all that is beautiful and good in the Church of God*

- St. Leonard of Port Maurice (1676-1751)

Pray for our Seminarians

Lord Jesus, we ask your special blessing on those preparing for the priesthood in our seminaries. We pray that they will grow in faith, hope and love. Give them courage and perseverance and be their constant companion as they prepare to serve you and your people with the fire of your love. Make them holy as you are holy. Amen.

Laundry

Have you ever wondered what happens to the linens after they are used for the Mass? I'm guessing that most people haven't thought about it. If you have, you probably guessed that they are put into a laundry machine and then dried. Well, kind of. The church has specific rules for washing the linens used during the Mass. Since they contain some of the Body and Blood of Christ on them, they must be treated with reverence and respect. The linens are first soaked in water to leach out and dissolve any remnant pieces of the Body and Blood of Christ that may have remained on the cloths. They the linens are laundered like normal laundry. The water that the linens soaked in must be poured out onto the group. Fun fact: what should you do if consecrated wine is spilled or a consecrated host has been carelessly discarded, damaged, or defiled? For Consecrated Wine the consecrated wine must be soaked up with a purificator (linen used in the Mass), then the spot diluted with water, then cleaned like normal. A Consecrated Host cannot be thrown away. Consecrated hosts must either be eaten or dissolved in water until it no longer resembles bread (which takes many days), then it can be poured into the group.

Christmas Mass Schedule:

 Midnight Mass December 25th at 12a

Advent is Here!

Some seasons we are familiar with celebrating: during Lent we fast and give up something, during Christmas we open gifts and have wonderful meals. Advent is one of those seasons that can feel difficult to celebrate well. This year I encourage all of you to celebrate the seasons. Not just do something or stay in the same routine as always, but celebrate these seasons with joy. The joy of the liturgical year comes when we feel the changes and spend time with various ways to understand our faith. Below are some suggestion for celebrating Advent well:

1. Create and maintain an advent wreath: every Sunday or every day, light the candles of the appropriate weeks and make it part of your meal time. If you would like a ritual to go with it, I have some prayers you can say while lighting the candles
2. Decide to do something different for Advent: you could add a prayer like the Angelus, read a book about the Christmas mysteries, or pray the rosary. These activities mark time and help us remember the season.
3. Do something charitable: help out at the Food Pantry or some of the social service in Helena, visit the nursing home residents, call people you have not talked to in a while.
4. Listen to Advent themed music: it is easy to jump the gun with the stores already playing Christmas music. The choice to stay in the season begins with our choices of music and entertainment.
5. Decorate for Advent: we are used to decorating for Christmas, but what about Advent? Many people create an Advent tree. It is like a Christmas tree but only has blue or white lights and no ornaments. Then on Christmas the tree is fully decorated to show the change in the seasons.
6. Be creative: these suggestions are merely suggestions. Our goal is to explore the season of Advent with its dynamics of preparing for the birth of the Messiah. How do you bring the feeling of the season into your own life?
